

Empower language
learners

Jing Cai MAT '17 works for a corporation in China that focuses on K-12 after school education programs.

The Master of Arts in Teaching—Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (MAT-TESOL) program prepares you to educate a variety of language learners in both U.S. and international settings. The program integrates tested theories and current research with fieldwork opportunities to practice classroom teaching. With the completion of additional courses, two semesters of full-time student teaching, and other requirements, you have the option to simultaneously pursue a single subject teaching credential in World Languages, either in English Language Development (ELD) or in a Language Other Than English (LOTE).

What sets the USC Rossier MAT-TESOL program apart?

LOS ANGELES LOCATION: Study in one of the most exciting and diverse cities in the world.

FIELDWORK OPPORTUNITIES: Practice teaching in a classroom through the school's longstanding relationships with English language learner programs in the region.

TECHNOLOGY-ENHANCED INSTRUCTION: Design and implement an online teaching module for communities around the world—such as refugees and other populations in transition—and prepare for the growing online TESOL market through an online practicum.

FOCUS ON EQUITY: Identify and learn about issues in school or society that adversely affect language learners and work with others to correct injustice affecting languages, language education and language learners.

YOUR MISSION AND OUR MISSION ALIGNED

The USC Rossier School of Education prepares leaders to advance educational equity in urban settings and beyond. USC Rossier draws on innovative thinking and collaborative research to improve learning opportunities and outcomes, address disparities, challenge inequitable systems of power and solve the most intractable problems in education.
