Allyson Felix '08 Receives the USC Alumni Association's Young Alumni Merit Award

At the 84th Annual USC Alumni Awards Dinner on April 22, Allyson Felix '08 received the Young Alumni Merit Award. Felix is a nine-time Olympic medalist and the most decorated woman in American track and field history. Since making her Olympics debut at the 2004 games in Athens, she has won six gold and three silver medals in four Olympic games—tying Merlene Ottey of Jamaica for the most Olympic medals won by a woman in track and field.

Born to a close-knit family in Los Angeles, Felix began running track as a freshman at Los Angeles Baptist High School in North Hills. At her first practice, coach Jonathon Patton asked Felix to run 40 meters. When he clocked her time, Patton initially thought that he had measured the distance incorrectly. He measured again, and the results were the same. Ten weeks later, Felix ran in the 200-meter race at the CIF California State Meet. It was an auspicious start for the freshman, who would go on to smash existing records and set new ones throughout high school. In 2003, Track and Field News named Felix “High School Athlete of the Year” among all girls in the nation. That same year, Felix competed in the 200-meter race at the Banamex Grand Prix in Mexico City, where she set a world record in the under-20 category.

In 2005, Felix made history at the World Championships in Helsinki, where she became the youngest sprinter to win gold in the 200-meter race. Over the next decade, she won eight additional gold medals, as well as three silvers and one bronze, at the World Championships in Osaka, Berlin, Daegu and Beijing.

A three-time winner of the Jesse Owens Award, USA Track & Field's highest accolade, Felix has received many other honors over the years, including the 2006 ESPY Award for Best Track Female Athlete. The Los Angeles Sports Council has named Felix Sportswoman of the Year three times, and she is a member of the President's Council on Fitness, Sports and Nutrition. Along with fellow Trojan Olympian Janet Evans '95 and Olympic diver Greg Louganis, Felix served as a 2017 Tournament of Roses Parade Grand Marshal.

Stephanie Agnon MAT '05 is working in the Lynwood Unified School District in Lynwood, Calif.

Christopher Chaves EdD '05 is the author of the book Liberal Arts and Sciences: Thinking Critically, Creatively, and Ethically. The book advances arguments for a balance involving humane traits, technical skills and citizenship development as the most important goals in higher education. The book was nominated for the American Association of College & University's 2015 Frederic W. Ness Book Award and the 2016 Eric Hoffer Book Award. It was also recommended by the Chinese Society for Academic Degrees and Graduate Education. The book was adopted to the Reading List by Warwick University (England), School of Cross Disciplines,

Liberal Arts program. Finally, it was awarded the Gold Seal for literary excellence.

Two Teams of 2016 EdD Graduates Present Their Research at Conferences

A collaboration between Jennifer Edic Bryant EdD '16, Ashley Selva EdD '16 and Karen Escalante EdD '16 has led to opportunities to share research and expertise at two recent conferences. The team traveled to Sacramento in March to present a policy analysis on new teacher induction and internships at the California Council on Teacher Education. The team's poster session was focused around the mentoring component of the policies and how providers can best develop and implement the new standards. In addition, the trio also had an opportunity to share their research findings on leadership development with local administrators at the ACSA Region 15 Leadership Symposium held in Monrovia, on March 25. The three 2016 graduates have continued to partner in publishing research, developing presentations and offering consulting through their partnership, The Transformational Educator.

George Herrera EdD '16, Isaac Huang EdD '16 and Henry Romero EdD '16 presented key insights and findings from their collective dissertation studies, "An Examination of Small, Mid-Sized and Large School District Superintendents and the Strategies They Employ to Improve the Academic Achievement of English Language Learners" on July 20 at the 2016 California Association of Latino Superintendents and Administrators (CALSA) Summer Institute in San Jose, Calif. The session presented effective research-based strategies that California administrators are using to positively impact the academic success of English Learners in an effort to narrow the achievement gap. In addition, participants were able to understand administrative leadership and dispositions that are effective in improving the academic achievement of English learners.

David Knight PhD '15 was awarded a grant from the National Science Foundation (NSF) to assess the impact of Texas science, technology, engineering and mathematics (T-STEM) academies on students'
